Happy St. Patrick's Day!

STARTING OVER AND OVER AGAIN

Spring can be hard at times because it seems that we just start on something and we're taking another break. Hang in there and find short meaningful lessons. Spring was always the time of the year when I would start on units like composers, the family of instruments, or maybe studying one major work from my favorite baroque, classical, or modern composer. At any rate, find a way to hang in there because there will be a huge time frame when you won't have a break.

IT'S NEVER TOO EARLY TO TALK ABOUT SUMMER SESSIONS!

Our Summer Song 2023!

Beginning July 24th-27th at 9AM, Monday - Thursday, a summer music camp for kids with singing, art time, and team building. Thursday will culminate in an evening of fellowship and a free concert for parents, family, friends, and community members presented by the students in 3rd through 5th grade. Students will need to provide their own sack lunch and bottled water for our lunch break and may bring their own games/books or team balls to play during downtime. Our team will provide music, a music folder, a pencil, and a camp shirt to be worn on the night of the concert.
